EST MODUS IN REBUS.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1886.

The celebration of the Princess Liliuokalani's birthday was a thorough success, reported as being as dead as ditch water. son to complain.

SEEING that Yokohama is an infected port, our Board of Health ought to publish the fact. There has been no publication, and this is certainly a gross blunder. If Yokohama is to be regarded as an infected port, the information should be not be simply stated in a pilot's or a doctor's private instructions.

Mr. H. A. P. Carter, who has been our Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Washington, returned by last steamer. The treaty needs fighting another session, and it is considered in mercantile and other influential circles that he is the man for the post. It is un-derstood that Mr. Gibson, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs and present Minister of Interior, hopes to supplant Mr. Carter at Washington. Whether this move will come off or not yet remains to be seen.

Ir is evident the United States don't intend to stand any nonsense when it comes to a matter of law and order. The condemning of the seven anarchists to death. in Chicago, is very nearly a death blow to the anarchist movement. It is always hard to get into some minds the difference between liberty and license; we rather fancy that the definition has become perfectly clear to the Chicago rioters by this time. The United States have no idea of nursing enemies to honestly acquired property, in their bosoms.

The letter of "Civis," which appears in this issue claims attention. It shows dis tinctly the blot on the present Hawaiian system. The parallel made with Greece is an apt one. This greed for small official posts is eating like a canker into the heart of our nation. Young men cease to care about fitting themselves for life's combat, becuse they see that merit or knowledge of business are not the attributes which will lift them along. They see men utterly incapable of fulfilling the duties required of them, pitchforked into posi-tions for merely political purposes, and they give up caring to acquire knowledge. The result is that in some departments the old employees have to undertake to play schoolmaster to their juniors as well as instruct them in the technical duties of their

Belfast will not be allowed to remain in a chronic state of riot, or not. and the pacifying of that city and the surrounding district is assured. The land question however, is the one on which in terest settles. In regard to this the new Cabinet have advisedly determined to wait until the winter before declaring their policy. Masses of information have been accumulated, other information will be re quired, but all this requires to be digested | constructed, and from an increased popubefore a new set of men can thoroughly deal with a question which has remained insoluble since the days of the Gracchi. It is evident that the Cabinet intend to it was before we had the loan, that is, if foster Irish industry, that the deep sea fishing, drainage, extension of railways. are all to be pushed forward. The Conservative Cabinet evidently intend to try and do their duty as enlightened statesmen, but they are not going to rush vio lently at remedies which may prove worse than the disease.

The Bulgarian difficulty is quite likely to disturb the peace of Europe. It is so grave that increased activity is reported in all the English dockyards, and that the army of the same country is being quietly prepared for an emergency. Of course, every one sees the hand of Russia, and it is only a part of her great plan. She has are now covered with valueless jungle. pushed forward her railway to Merv with astonishing rapidity, she is even now intriguing in Eastern Persia, and Russian papers are publishing fabricated petitions from Persia in order to give an excuse for the army to move whenever Russia is ready. The object, of course, is to so threaten India, when the final attack upon Turkey comes, as to prevent England from moving. Alexander of Bulgaria is only a pawn on the board, but seeing that he is likely to return and be received with enthusiasm by his subjects, he may prove a very inconvenient pawn. How far Austria and Prussia are connected with the Russian intrigue is by no means clear. If they have connived, of course, Prince Alexander will never return, but the latest news points to his return and therefore clears their skirts of connivance with the conspiracy. The whole Eastern question may have again become a burning issue 'ere another mail reaches us.

THE work of rolling up the Appropriation Bill goes bravely on, and it is almost impossible to say what it will amount to. There have been so many changes, and there is the prospect of so many more, that no one can predict its sum. It is satis factory that the second reading has at last been completed, and that the third reading will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible. The Session has certainly been a very weary one, and everybody is heartily sick and tired of it. Not only has it been dragged out to an unreasonable length, but it causing raim to have been marked by the following any great measures commencing the it fast that a > million dollars will soon be at the command of the Hawaiian Government of the day. Thus ends an episode in Hawaiian political history. The necessity of a loan as large as this one, has been discussed any time this last six or eight years. There was a time when the country had confidence enough in the Cabinet to have raised a loan among its own citizens, quite passed. The kaleidoscopic Cabinets of the past four years have been in such antagonism with the material interests of the country, that the surplus capital here, the kaleidoscopic period the Cabinets threw themselves into the hands of Mr. Spreckels to whom they stand indebted $500,000. But when early in this session the California capitalist urged retrenchment, it was not to the taste of some parties about the Government, and a loan was sought in a new quarter, and may be practically regarded as arranged.

This is the more The spectacle they have presented has out of office long ago. In this they have a venal majority by which they are enabled to save their political necks, but their position is a most humiliating made known to all the world, and should try, their conduct would have forced them and we doubt whether, even in spite of their majority they will hold their places long. It will be seen before long that their own party will go back on them.

The bonds will probably be taken en blok by Mr. Armstrong and the gentle men he represents, they placing them on the market at the best price they can obnecessary to place them at 98 instead of at | which we believe is the cause of much par. It would leave a net profit of three sickness and death. per cent to the syndicate, or the capitalist who took up the bonds.

This method of obtaining a loan is entirely different from that used by the Colonies and European countries. They, having determined on a loan, the length of time and the rate of interest, go into the time and the rate of interest, go into the open market and call for tenders. Where the government is good and stable many times the required amount is subscribed, and the best terms can be chosen; in such and the best terms can be chosen; in such may realize at par, or below par according as capitalists have faith in their stability

However, here we have our loan, and as it is authorized by law, we must see that it is not wasted. We shall have a considerable sum to pay in interest every year, and we have been steadily running behind for the past four years. The interest of the loan will have to come from the returns from public works which are to be lation which it is proposed to bring to our shores. The carrying on of the Government now is a far more difficult thing than we wish our credit to become established on a firm basis.

The experiment which Mr. Purvis has made in Hamakua, Hawaii, with cinchona trees, is eminently satisfactory. In another column will be found the plain statement which Mr. Purvis gives of his methods, and of the number of trees he now has planted out. It is always a good thing to get one's eggs divided up into a number of baskets. Here evidently is opportunity for a person possessing moderate capital to make a very paying investment. There are thousands of acres on Hawari which might be utilized for cinchona, but which There are lands on Maui, Molokai, Oahu and Kauai, which might be used for the same purpose. We do not advocate a rush towards cinchons, we merely hail the success of an experiment which has in all probability added another industry to the Islands, and it is fresh industries which we

The success of Mr. Purvis marks what a man of energy, with means at his disposal. can do. To carry his views through, Mr. Purvis was not content to remain here and write letters to obtain information; he went to the expense and trouble of visiting Ceylon, and gaining practical knowledge of the methods of cinchona culture and the gathering of the crop. Instead, therefore, of experimenting at haphazard, Mr. Purvis went to work in a workman like fashion and hence his success.

There are many other industries which might be taken up, and which would yield a living to a large portion of our popula-tion. Much land which is now occupied by Chinese for the cultivation of rice might be used by Hawaiians and whites for other crops. Of course, the Chinese have utilized lands which formerly were lying waste, mere rush flats, but they also have encroached on lands which were already in cultivation for taro and other native food products.

The cultivation of the vine is yet in its infancy here, it only needs encouragement to become one of the most profitable of crops. Ramie is being experimented upon, and its success is yet problematical. There is no reason why tobacco should not prove a success, but to make it a sucnot prove a success, but to make it a suc-cess requires very thorough knowledge, tisement.

To the Cabinet is due, undoubtedly, the | both as to cultivation and curing, and that that might be considered; and last but not least the planting of the black wattle. There are plenty of opportunities for improvement if we can only make up our minds to get out of the regular rut.

> THE mortuary tables for the month of August merit attention. They show that the health of the town is certainly unsatought not to run up to 33.14 per thousand. the Hawaiians, no less than 70 per cent of from fever, those of the fatal cases being from typhoid. Now, it is very plain from these facts that there is something wrong. and ought not to have run up 45 per cent emphasized by the fact that the great fire | Mortgagee's Notice of Intention to Foreclose

Of course, one looks about for causes, and we think that the cause will be found in the water supply. We recommend a strict use of filtered water. The water from the pipes is not fit to drink until it has been filtered. Whether it will be Well, the loan bill has passed and two much improved even when the new pipes are laid is extremely problematical. At all events it will lose many of its impurities, though of course it cannot lose all. What a comment this is on the boasted sanitation of the city. The present Board of Health had plenty of flourish about sanitation, and obtained an appropriation for the purpose, but the said sanitation has been confined to scraping the roads at as large as this one, but that time has an exorbitant price and nothing further passed. The kaleidoscopic Cabinets of has been done. It is in this as in everything else under the present administration and its kaleidoscopic predecessors, improvements are talked of but never has sought investment abroad rather than done. The purpose is served when a vote at home. In order to raise money during of money is obtained; it sounds well and acts as an advertisement, but as to actually doing the proposed good, why, that is a horse of a totally different color. A government cannot be blamed if some unforeseen epidemic spreads among the people, but it can and ought to be blamed if it fails to take proper precautions to preserve the health of the governed. The President of the Board of Health has had such power in his hands, during the last four years, that any improvement he proposed could have been readily carried out; that improvements have not been carried out is tain. The commission of five per cent his fault, and chiefly is he to be blamed will amply cover them should it be found for the deficient and poor water supply

I was reading in a late S. F. "Bulletin" an ediconcludes by saying, "it is the same old story wherever it comes from," I was satisfied that "that" editor was not propagating Chinese influence. The Advertiser was not quoted.

I heard that noted admirer of ladies, "God bless 'em'' ! state in the Assembly the other day that "every precaution had been taken against allowing any vessel from the cholera infected ports of Japan to enter the harbor." Yet, almost before he had enjoyed a good night's rest to! a vessel, the Moscor; only 12% days from Japan, did come in! How now Mr. President? Where is that knife that was used on young Dr. McGrew?

Talk about talk, and waste of time! Now, it seems to me, that Thurston will have to figure up again, as the orators of the "great majority, Keau, Kaunamano and Kaulukou, have used time and wind which exceeds his original estimate of expense. Truly the triumvirate talk. But then they don't do much injury in talk; they rarely say

I hear that, at the luan the other day at Princess Liliuokalani's, the President of the Board of Many Things was chaffed on account of his abstaining from a second trial of courtship. I have, however, to come to the rescue, and excuse his dislike for courting, on the ground that one investigation which he courted nearly rained him. I don't think he wants to court any more just at present.

The place-holders seem to me to be very unquiet just now on account of a seeming disposition in high places to rule the roost. Even the "Lost Stocking " poet has had his hopes dashed to earth, and is now endeavoring to engage in another alliance that promises to pan out better. Palavering a cross sticks is probably an esthetical way of asking for official favor. Bah! Get thee to—

Have you heard that "there's a new dude in town?" No! Well, I did, and I wondered who it was. I knewlit, could not be Lilikalani, he's old, nor the poet, nor Billy Cornwell, nor Sam Parker his chum, nor Thurston, nor Dole; Dickey, n-n-o, I was it was it him. Leveld not Dare, by gracious! No, it wasn't him. I could not place Creighton there; and in mortification I gave it up, but, you bet, "There's a new dude in town."

The lately arrived Minister of Hawaii at Washington is a stranger to me, but I have heard him say that he expects to return. Now, I am well enough posted to tender the gentleman my little "manao" and say NOT, if Gibson knows it. I'll smile, with the returned Minister, when my statement correct returned.

Only lately I read the names of some of America's great men, the representatives being scattered pretty well through the Great Republic, thus, George Washington was in jail at Sing Sing, John Adams was capper for a faro bank in "Prisco;" Adams was capper for a faro bank in "Frisco;"
Thomas Jefferson was captain of an oyster sloop in Norfolk, Henry Clay was a bootblack, as was also Rufus Choate, in Baltimore, Grant was a boxer in New York and Buchanan was a dray driver in Boston. And then I thought over some names familiar to this "one horse State," this "sardine in the Salvation Army in Chicago, Jack Dare had finished an address (at the end of a rope) to a large audience at Abilene, Kansas, and Robert Creighton had been arrested in San Francisco for robbery.
